IV 以下の英文を読んで、各設問に答えなさい。（*印の語句については、注釈を参照すること。）

Rickshaw comes from a Japanese word that means “human-powered *vehicle.” The vehicle was first used in 19th-century Japan and then in other Asian countries to transport passengers. Rickshaw pullers are traditionally male. However, thanks to social media, a growing number of Japanese women are becoming rickshaw pullers.

Yuka Akimoto is one of the female rickshaw pullers in Tokyo. “It was extremely hard at the beginning,” Akimoto said, as the rickshaw can weigh *up to 250 kg. “But now I love my job and want to work as long as <sup>(a)</sup>my body allows.”

Akimoto joined Tokyo Rickshaw two years ago. The company says about a third of their 90 pullers are now women. They are seeking more females to work for the company.

<sup>(h)</sup>Rickshaw pullers walk or run an average of 20 km a day, no matter the weather. In addition to being *physically strong, rickshaw pullers must know a lot about Tokyo. They also need to ( ア ) with visitors who want to see the city. The most popular pullers earn over 1 million yen a month. That is three times the national average. According to Tokyo Rickshaw, less than 10 percent of all *applicants are offered a job.

Shiori Yano is 29 years old. She has been pulling rickshaws for nine years. She balances the demands of ( イ ). She took a four-year break after having a child. She now pulls the rickshaw for eight hours a day, hurrying to pick up her daughter from *childcare before going home to cook dinner and do housework.

“We <sup>(c)</sup>treat both male and female pullers completely equally,” Tokyo Rickshaw President Ryuta Nishio said. “The women say they want to be treated the same as the men, and in fact many of them are much tougher.”

(注) vehicle : 乗り物      up to : 最大…まで      physically : 身体的に      applicant : 応募者
childcare : 保育園
